MASTER plan

To follow wherever Christ would lead was the Master Plan upon which Bob Jones College was founded in 1927. Outlined by the Maker, this Plan called for Bob Jones College to move from College Point, Florida, to Cleveland, Tennessee, in 1932, and from there to Greenville, South Carolina, in 1947.

With each set of drawings the cornerstone was the same: "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." The purpose, also, remained the same: "To be excelled by none in the thoroughness of its scholastic work, and with God's help, to excel all others in the thoroughness of its Christian training." Included in this Master Plan were the students who came here: "His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works."

But all is not complete, for God hath planned a whole. The Master Plan contains a blueprint for that city which hath foundations whose Builder and Maker is God.

Until we see that place which Thou hast prepared for us, this University, this, Thy people, Lord, shall be guided by Thine eye, following Thy instructions to the final page of the Master Plan.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

During the last year that Bob Jones College was located at Cleveland, Tennessee, 1946-47, the faculty and student body, with their families and friends, contributed the funds for the construction of this building.

Dedication

In grateful recognition to those who have endeavored to make possible "America's Most Unusual University," we dedicate this 1948 edition of the VINTAGE.

God, the Master Builder, took the large contributions of the few and combined them with the mites of the many, used the smallest efforts of the faithful, the exertions of the strong, and heard the prayers of His people everywhere. The hands that gave grasped the hands that built, and both through faith clasped fast the hands that reached to God.

DR. BOB JONES, SR.

To the University family, Dr. Bob Jones, Sr., is a loving "Father," who has guided them on their way. His determination, "never put off until tomorrow what can be done today," has been the incentive behind the vast good he has accomplished.

In an age when God is dishonored, he has stood as one never retreating but ever pressing forward toward "the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

His bits of philosophical and proverbial wisdom have guided many through difficult places, renewing their faith and giving them hope for the future.

We give him tribute:

"By looking to Jesus, like Him thou shalt be;

Thy friends in thy conduct, His likeness shall see."

O U R G U I D E S

Although he is one of the youngest university presidents in the nation, Dr. Bob Jones, Jr., has years of fruitful experience behind him. At the age of twenty-one he became acting-president and this year ascended to the presidency. Versatile, cultured, and Godly, he has the admiration of all who know him.

Dr. Bob's office is never closed to students seeking advice. His ability to recall their names, their faces, or their home towns—often all three—results in a close relationship between president and students.

He has taught them what he himself learned, that

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom,

And a knowledge of the Holy is understanding."

THE ACTIVITIES

THE CLASSIC PLAYERS

The Classic Players, created by Dr. Bob Jones, Jr., in 1930, have brought wide-spread recognition to the University. This is the only group in America whose repertoire consists exclusively of Shakespeare's plays. Membership is open to any student who shows talent and acting ability at the tryouts.

Featured in midwinter was the Cibber version of Richard III, a masterpiece of melodrama. The cast of over two hundred was directed by Katherine Stenholm.

Instructions Before the Performance

Many hours of work precede each production by the Classic Players. Students enjoy unusual opportunities through participation in these dramatic performances.

Production and the CLASSIC PLAYERS

The size of the stage in the Rodeheaver Auditorium being almost twice that of the one in Cleveland, an entirely new set of scenery and curtains was needed. The three divisions of the Production Department met the demand fully and capably. Taking care of the technical end of the work, stage manager Wallace Carr and his crew constructed impressive lighting equipment and versatile stage devices.

Under scenic artist Lawrence Pruitt, the scenery construction group created backgrounds that were natural and pleasing as well as beautiful in their appropriateness.

The attainments of the costume department resulted largely from the experience and direction of its supervisor, Margurett Burson. The attractive costumes that they made added color and atmosphere to the final polished performances.

OPERA 'AIDA'

Five famous guest stars took the leading roles in Verdi's opera, Aida, and were supported by a cast of two hundred. The other notable parts were played by Herbert Hoover, Lawrence Brown, Helen Carruth, and Daniel Williams. Karl Keefer and Marjorie Parker directed the music and staging.

The plot of Aida: Aida, unknown as the daughter of the Ethiopian King Amonasro, is a slave in Pharaoh's palace. She loves Radames, a young warrior, who also loves her. Amneris, Pharaoh's daughter, loves him, too.

When Aida's father attempts to rescue her, Radames defeats the Ethiopian Army and captures Amonasro.

For gaining this victory Radames is made leader of the army. Amonasro persuades Aida to extract secret information from Radames and then to flee. Amneris overhears and betrays them. Brought to trial, Radames is condemned to be buried alive. In the end Aida secretes herself in his tomb, and they die together.

V E S P E R S

Of the Bible dramas presented this year at vespers, the production of JOB is especially noteworthy. Under the direction of Robert Pratt, this drama proved to be one of the most interesting performances.

An unusual feature of the production was the performance by the Choric Reading Society.

V E S P E R S

The Sunday afternoon vesper service, "God's show-window," keynotes the week for everyone on campus and also for visitors from miles around Greenville.

These colorful productions consisting of special musical numbers, choral readings, short dramatizations of stories based on Scripture, and other unique stage presentations are prepared by Marjorie Parker, Katherine Stenholm, Sara Gayle Pyfrom, and Robert Pratt, and students of the Music and Speech departments.

O R C H E S T R A

The University Orchestra, directed by Herbert Hoover, finished a hard assignment at its major appearance this year by playing the difficult and beautiful accompaniment for Verdi's opera Aida.

Taking part in the oratorios, vespers, and occasional public concerts, this fine organization is kept in constant activity.

Two factors make the Radio Department outstanding: its variety and its professional atmosphere. Nine hours a week are filled with programs that are well worth hearing. Regular changes throughout the school year, besides creating interest, give evidence of the diversity of this department. A typical weekly schedule follows:

The day begins with a news broadcast by Dick Hamilton, followed by a short devotional period, "Just For Today," for which the mixed quartet furnishes music. Dr. Bob Jones, Sr., speaks when he is here; in his absence the script is prepared from selected devotional books.

The "Music Box" provides light secular music each weekday afternoon. After the evening news on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, "The World's Great Music" may be heard. This is the only program using recorded music. On Tuesday and Thursday at this time "An Album of Reveries" furnishes diversity with poetry and music on various themes. Each Saturday evening the Choric Reading Society reads Scripture with organ music as a background. The morning worship service and a half hour of organ music, "Evensong", are broadcast on Sunday.

With Dr. Bob Jones, Sr., bringing the message, and the Radio choir, soloists, and quartets singing appropriate music, "The Tabernacle Hour," each Monday night seems—and rightly so—like an old-time evangelistic meeting; and at the same time Thursday night on the "Fellowship Hour," a small group of students create a sociable atmosphere typical of the Young People's Fellowship Clubs started by Dr. Bob Jones, Sr.

THE FELLOWSHIP NEWS

The Fellowship News, edited by Dr. Bob Jones, Sr., is the official organ of the Young People's Fellowship Club. Its managing editor, Dr. Grace Haight, contributes the hymn section. Using as its motto "Whatever the Bible says is so," this little paper presents the Gospel truth in a simple way to Christian people everywhere.

Little Moby's Post, edited by Miss Lillian Lee, is the bi-monthly publication of the University Alumni Association. Containing campus events and alumni news, it circulates throughout the nation and in many foreign countries.

CHURCH CHOIRS

Dignity and inspiration are given to the Sunday morning worship service by the vested church choirs, each choir singing on alternate

Sundays. Mr. Karl Keefer is their organist and director. They participate in the annual Christmas and Easter concerts and frequently appear on vespers. Their faithful singing of God's praises proves a blessing to those who hear them.

BOWEN BIBLICAL MUSEUM

When the school was moved from Cleveland to Greenville, the Bowen Biblical Museum was set up on the second floor of the new Mack Library. There it may be seen almost as it was at Cleveland. The Museum was donated to the school by Reverend and Mrs. Frank Bowen, who traveled extensively in Palestine and the Middle East. While there they gathered this marvelous collection of items native to that region, that gives the Christian a better understanding of the Scriptures. Some of the most interesting and attractive pieces are figures dressed in appropriate garbs of each occupation, and others dressed in clothing worn in Bible times, a sixty-foot net used on the Sea of Galilee, a plow from the field of Boaz, and a host of household articles. Another object of note is a lamp found in a Caesarean prison, which is thought to have been used by the Apostle Paul.

ART DEPARTMENT

Twice during the year the art students were given opportunity to display their best works—in a February show and in the climaxing Commencement exhibition.

Other activities included the showing of the University permanent collection of prints, and, as the primary feature of the year, Mr. Grant Reynard, a visiting artist of national renown, presented a fine group of his water colors and etchings. Mr. Reynard proved to be instructive and inspiring to all who attended his demonstrations and lectures.

Recent additions to the University's permanent collection include the donations by Mr. Grant Reynard of his etchings "Crucifixion" and "Old Church" and by Miss Elizabeth Davis of her painting "Lilies."

Did you or did you not on this date—previously or subsequently, alone or before witnesses . . . What is this—a Court? No . . . Discipline Committee! Before this Committee, composed of the Deans, faculty, and representative students, you are guilty until you are proven innocent—or maybe it is innocent until you are proven guilty. Well, Anyhow—if you have been early to bed (10:30), and early to rise (6:30) as a University student should, there will be no demerits. BUT, if you believe that Cleanliness is next to . . . impossible, there will be demerits on your floor—I mean—in the box!

Girls carrying Bibles and flannel-graph material, boarding a local bus—they are the Life Service Band girls going out to hold children's meetings. Sincerity and passion for the salvation of children typify these young women, for they realize that a child won is "not only a soul, but a whole life saved for Christ." The groups meet each Monday afternoon to receive practical instruction in child evangelism.

Realizing that neither learning, earnestness, diligence, nor study can take the place of prayer, students meet in groups each morning to pray for missionaries. At these daily meetings many have answered the Lord's call to various fields of service. At the joint meetings on Saturdays, messages brought by University students and by visiting missionaries prove a great blessing and challenge.

The weary ones had rest, the sad had joy that day,
And wondered "How?"
A ploughman singing at his work, had prayed,
"Lord, help them now."
Away in foreign lands they wondered "How?"
Their feeble words had power:
At home the Christians, "two or three," had met
To pray an hour!

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Affiliated with the National Education Association and the South Carolina Education Association, the Bob Jones University chapter of the Future Teachers of America was first formed at Cleveland, Tennessee in 1940. Composed of students who plan to enter the teaching profession, this group meets once a month for panel discussions, reports, and lectures on matters of interest in the field of education, and also studies problems that they will face in actual classroom work.

From the Staff to you:

We wish to acknowledge the kindness shown to us by all those who have helped us publish the 1948 VINTAGE.

Miss Eunice Moore, our faculty adviser, added originality and gave helpful suggestions along with her approval of our work.

The articles written by the literary staff were patiently but strictly corrected by Mrs. Mercer. We respect her preciseness, for it prompted us to do better work. We appreciate the advice and information which the faculty and student body gave so cheerfully. For their encouraging pat on the back when the going was the roughest, we also are honestly grateful.

We wish to thank the few who felt tempted to ask questions about their annual pictures and snapshots but restrained themselves. And then, we here grant forgiveness to those 2300 others who couldn't restrain themselves.

To all those teachers who winked at us when we handed in unprepared cards, we wish to say "Thanks." Would they please fill their names in the following space . . . (Whoa, that's plenty!) The annual staff as a whole wishes to pay their respects here to Ruth, Darling. The Literary staff, in particular, refers you to Bob Bailey, the friendly interpreter, in case any of the write-ups puzzle you.

Right here and now we pay our respects to those who should be respected, beg the pardon of those who should pardon us, extend our regrets to all those we have neglected, forgotten, slighted, or just plain ignored; and throw ourselves on the mercy of our critics.

THE ATHLETICS

COACH HOLMES

ATHLETIC

The men's literary societies are divided into two leagues—American and National—with eight teams in each league. In the four major sports—soccer, basketball, volleyball, and softball—the two leagues play within themselves until a winner is decided in each. These teams play for the school championship.

All the societies participate in track, and the one emerging with most points wins the track title for that year. The minor sports also attract interest: ping pong, tennis, badminton, and horseshoes, all being played in singles and doubles.

Points are given to each society for every sport in which it participates and for its position in the final standing. At the end of the year all these points are added together, and the society having the highest number of points becomes the all-round champion.

The standing for the year 1946-47:

NATIONAL		AMERICAN
Pi Gemma Delta	94 1/2	Bryan	89 1/2
Phi Beta Chi	88 1/2	Pi Epsilon Phi	66 3/4
Nu Delta Chi	31 1/2	Chi Delta Theta	66 1/4
Phi Kapp Pi	28 1/4	Theta Kappa Nu	26 1/2
Alpha Omega Delta	23	Epsilon Zeta Chi	16 1/4

On March 15, 1948, Coach Holmes made these predictions. He thinks Theta Kappa Nu will emerge with the highest number of points in the American league and in the school. They won the championship in volleyball, were runners-up in their league in basketball, and are leading in the ping pong tournament. Coach thinks they have fine possibilities to win or place in the two remaining major sports, softball and track.

The Cavaliers, a new society which took the school basketball crown, have the best chance, according to the coach, to come in second in total points. They, too, are in the American league.

In the National league the coach thinks Phi Beta Chi will wind up the season with the most points. They won the National league basketball championship. But they will still rank third to the two top American league teams in total points.

THE ANNUAL PUBLICATION OF THE STUDENT BODY

BILL PRIBBENO, Editor-in-Chief
JOYCE BOHLING, Associate Editor
OF BOB JONES UNIVERSITY
GREENVILLE, SOUTH CAROLINA

Dear Friends of Bob Jones University:

You are no doubt aware of the value of an annual in the life of a student; especially is this true in the life of a Bob Jones University student. We want the first year book from Bob Jones University to be the best yet. Therefore, we want it to be an accurate record of 1947-48 and to be interesting to all who will ever look at it.

I am asking you to do something which will require some little thought and effort. The student whose name appears on the enclosed card, recently named you as his parents, close friend, or guardian.

We are trying a stunt in our Senior Section which will require 100 per cent cooperation, and which we think you will enjoy also.

This must be kept Secret until after the annual is OUT!!

Will you please write the information requested below on the enclosed self-addressed post card:

1. The cutest thing this person has ever done (including sayings and etc.)
2. Or, the "funniest" incident in the life of this senior.
3. Or, interesting achievements (outside of college) he has attained.

Thank you so much for your prompt cooperation in this.

Respectfully yours,

Billy PribbENO

YESTERDAYS IN THE SENIORS' LIVES

JOHN YOUNG'S parents called him the "rolling baby" because he would roll and roll and roll when his mother put him to bed.

One Sunday DAVID YOUNG, then a very small boy, decorated the front piazza, the kitchen sink, and himself with green paint, just in time for the minister's arrival to dinner.

EARL MAUST used to tie a wagon to his pony's tail so that his little brother and sister might ride in it while he rode the pony.

On her third birthday, RUTH LOCKETT asked, "Why don't you put the flag out for my birthday, too?" Her parents always hung out the flag on Washington's birthday, which was also her brother's birthday.

When JOEL KNEPPER was about two years of age, his favorite pastime was to dig out (like a little mouse) the center of a loaf of newly baked bread. Then he and his dog would enjoy a "yummy" snack.

JANET MOODIE, formerly known as "Butterball," was mama's little helper. She washed her baby sister's dirty face with fresh butter.

His mother refused to make blackberry pie, claiming there was no sugar in the house. LAWRENCE PRUITT saw no obstacle there; he swapped eggs for sugar at his uncle's grocery. There was only one trouble—he had appropriated the eggs from under a setting hen and the eggs were almost ready to hatch.

Peeling apples with the dull side of the knife was one of IMOGENE FORD'S first culinary achievements.

As a little girl, ELIZABETH HORNE HOLMES spent some of her happiest moments riding in a hemp sack which was slung over her brother's back.

ELWOOD HEISER has always been a lady's man. At the age of six he invited a girl friend of his to go tricycling with him and afterward treated her to potato chips bought from his meager savings.

LORETTA MICK philosophized at the age of four, "It's funny—when it's cold we put on our coats to keep warm, but the trees lose all their leaves and are bare. When it's hot we take off our coats, but the trees put on their leaves."

spike heel shoes, an old dress, and the job of making berry pies, many of which came to a happy ending up-side-down in front of the oven door.

"King Corn! King Corn!" was the invective hurled at the mother of GEORGE STORY when she would not allow him to do things that he wanted to do. (George, we thought that in the South it was King Cotton.)

Before entering grade school and after observing his brothers and sister doing homework, REESE JOHNSON remarked, "When I start school, I'm going to start in the upper grades and get the hardest done first."

In grade school one day, the teacher questioned BILL THOMAS about his parents, home finances, et cetera, and Bill replied, "My folks don't believe in worrying children about adult problems and don't discuss their business before the children."

When she was eleven years old, DELORES BRIGGS sang Christmas carols on a radio program. She was called the "girl with a smile on her lips and a tear (pronounced teer) in her voice."

Play—The Arsonist.

Act I—Setting—basement of Johnson home, stack of newspapers, one match, and one EDITH JOHNSON, age eight.

Action—Edith strikes match, places on newspapers.
Exit Edith.

Act II—Scene I—Setting—living room of home. Edith and sister.

Action—Edith whispers in ear of sister; latter rushes from room. Exit Edith.

Scene II—Setting—basement. Huge bonfire.

Action—Sister screams. Curtain.

Act III—Setting—outside Johnson home. Firemen. Many people. Smoke coming from basement.

Action—Edith being spanked. Curtain.

Once upon a time, little MARGUERITE HOVIS was sick, so sick that the doctor had to be called. When he came, Marguerite was nowhere to be found. Finally, after long searching, her mother found her hidden in the kitchen cabinet!

When FRANCES DENTON and her father narrowly escaped an automobile accident, Frances drew a deep breath and said, "Daddy, that scared my stomach!"

At the age of four DORIS HAYES was invited by a friend of another faith to attend church services with her. Being neighborly and yet wanting to reassure her mother, she promised, "Mother, I won't believe a word they say if you'll let me go."

EDNA JACKSON would not eat eggs when she was at home, but at her Auntie's house in Miami she asked to have some. The reason: She didn't like "laid" eggs, but she did like "bought" ones!

When SHIRLEY KETCHAM was a wee tot she was asked what she learned in Sunday School. She said, "Eat carrots for you." Her Sunday School paper had on it the Scripture, "He careth for you."

One of the songs that was popular when HILDEGARDE PIERCE was about three years old was "Keep Your Sunny Side Up." One day, after her mother had scolded her for something, Hildegard looked up wistfully and said, "Mother, why don't you keep your sunny side up?"

IRIS RICHMOND had a kitten that liked bacon rind. Iris often had bacon for breakfast and would throw the rind in the kitty's dish, which was nearby. When her family visited relatives one time, bacon—with rind—was served. After Iris had finished, she called out loudly, "Mama, where shall I throw my rind?"

Our DICK COLE was a merry young soul,
Whose antics made circus clowns wince;

He started to talk
Before he could walk
And has never stopped talking since!

It's a funny thing how great band leaders finally get together. In Louisiana and Florida, respectively, VINCENT CERVERA and ERNEST PICKERING were both "maestros" in the first grade of school. Ernie had previous musical experience: he sang a solo in kindergarten.

Announcing:

ANNA LOURIE won the county award in the Sewing Project two years ago.

After she had thrown her knee out of place, NANCY MANCHESTER had to use crutches for a while. The school superintendent asked if he could do anything for her, and Nancy answered, "Yes, move all my classes to first floor, so that I won't have to climb stairs." And the superintendent did it !!!

Before HELEN UNANGST was three years old she could repeat the twenty-third Psalm and sing "How Lovely Is Jesus"—in Pennsylvania Dutch. (The question is: Can she still do it?)

JOE WAGNER's mother claims that when Joe was only three and a half years old he named all the books of the Bible and made only one mistake. (Well, it wasn't perfect; so we'll just raise ONE eyebrow.)

MARGARET CHAPPELL is better known at home as "Sunshine."

Instead of sucking her thumb, JANE LATON chewed on a piece of fur. (Yummy)

According to reliable sources, OPAL BREWTON thought she was grown up when she spoke at her high school graduation.

When RUBY CATES was about three years of age, a lady visiting in the home asked her name. Quickly she replied, "My name is Woo-bie, but they call me 'Wed-top'."

While riding along with his parents one day, TED BRUBAKER asked his mother what "anti-q's" were. She did not understand what he wanted to know until they came to another sign, at which he pointed. It was —"antiques!"

Perhaps EDITH SHARPE aspired to be an undertaker, for her mother heard her exclaim one day, "Mary, Ester, that's the last dog I am going to help bury for five cents."

When MARION TIDD was about four years old, she drank her first cup of coffee. She looked very much disappointed. Her sister suggested that she add sugar, but Marion just looked very thoughtful and said, "I have plenty of sugar in it—maybe I haven't twisted it enough!"

VIRGINIA TABOR liked to go to school very much and became upset if she had to miss. One morning at school time a storm struck, and her mother would not let her go. She sobbed, "I've gone to school when it was raining a hot larder than this!"

MARY JANE NUZUM'S piano-practicing was always best at dish-washing time.

MAX JAMES had the "gift of gab" in his childhood, for he was continually telling his kindergarten teacher stories that he had fabricated. One day he told her that as he and his father were playing basketball, Jesus came down and played with them; after they had finished, Jesus went back to heaven.

While working in his father's meat market one day, BOB JONES tried to put a platter of steaks on a shelf. He used the top of the mincemeat barrel as a stool and fell through, saturating himself in mincemeat and juice! Now he has a profound dislike for mince pie. Wonder why?

When in the third grade, FRANK BRADSHAW came home with such a poor grade in writing that his mother called on his teacher to make inquiries. "Well, you see, Mrs. Bradshaw, it isn't altogether his writing, but he writes with his mittens on!" (He didn't want to be like the three little kittens who lost their mittens!)

We didn't realize that ETTA BENTON was so light on her feet until we found that she was hop-scotch champion of Sioux City, Iowa, at the tender age of eleven. Best foot forward, Etta!

During his Boy Scout tests, DAN CHIPKA was told to see how fast he could build a fire. Thinking of the rain outside, he ran to his father and said, "Hey, Dad, could I build mine in the basement?"

RUSSELL FRY tried out his new bike on a freshly tarred street. Before his parents could let him in the house they had quite a job undressing him!

FIRMAN CUTHRIEL became very much upset when his teacher told him one day that three and three are six, and then the next day told him that four and two are six! (Maybe B. J. U. has cleared this up for him!)

While reading "Mutt and Jeff" in the funny papers, HOMER DENTON exclaimed, "Oh, Daddy! Mutt's coat fits like the skin on a weiner!"

One day someone asked TORRIS ALSTAD GERALDSON, "Are you a good boy?" "Yes," he replied, "when I am alone, but when my sister Lillian is with me, I am bad."

LOIS HALEY could not bear to see an animal in distress. One day she returned from school and tearfully related that someone had cut off the tail of a little kitten. Upon investigation, it was found that the "victim" was a genuine and very expensive Manx kitten that one of the neighbor's had just purchased.

Whatever happened to JOHN STONER'S younger brother? John used to wake him in the middle of the night and make the poor boy play some new game that he had just dreamed up.

DWIGHT PORTER'S first sermon (age five years)

Subject: Uncertain

Introduction: Evangelistic gestures

I. I'm redeemed.

"Praise the Lord!"

II. I'm on my way to heaven.

"Hallelujah!"

III. The old Bible is true.

(Pressed for words, he shouted)

Conclusion: "Go jump in the lake!"

Results: Baptized his sister Dorothy in the mop bucket.

On her first visit to the farm, BETTY MARIE SCOTT passed by a horse that was eating. The creature calmly raised his head to look at her. Betty fled to the house screaming, "Mother, that horse has teeth!!!" (He probably had fleas, too, Betty.)

Once upon a time, many years ago, when ARNOLD OLSEN was being given a "piggy-back" ride, he was heard to exclaim, "Oh, Lars, I can see the bottom of your head." (Lars was slightly bald.)

When asked what she intended to do when she grew up, RUTH DARLING declared that she was going to be her brother Robert's grandmother.

Believe it or not, ANDREW FRANCIS DUTY weighed nine pounds and three ounces at birth. He had jet black hair, which was roached in front and hung an inch below the neck of his dress in back. When he was two weeks old, Andrew got his first haircut.

MARGARET BROWN was unusually provocative one day, and her mother, in a burst of impatience, slapped her. Looking up with tears in her eyes, the tot of three asked, "Was that a spank or a love pat?" Assured it was a love pat, she again became her adorable, smiling self. (Brownie, may all your spanks in life be "love pats.")

When camping out with several friends in the North Georgia woods, BOB HILL awoke one morning to find that a farmer's hog had ransacked the place and eaten most of their food. That wasn't the worst of it, however, because the hog was sleeping contentedly by his side. Finding that he and the hog were "lousy" bedfellows, Bob moved.

JOYCE ONDERDONK was admiring the view of the Hudson one day and was paying little attention to the jelly sandwich which she was eating. On one bite she was not alone—a bee had got there first. He resented

Joyce's impetuosity and stung her on the tongue. (Might not this be called putting "the bee" on Joyce?)

It happened in kindergarten. ALMA STACE and her classmates were pasting a multitude of gummed animals on a picture of Noah's Ark. There just wasn't room for all of them, and the class was baffled. Bright little Alma raised her hand and offered the following solution: "We can tie strings to the fish and hook them to the end of the boat—they can swim."

VERNELLE BOUGHTON had a playmate who invariably went to sleep. But Vernelle found a way to remedy the situation: ice cubes in the shoes.

Time was when, if you'd ask little FRANK PIERCE what he'd like to eat, Frank would give this classic reply:

"Hippity-hop, flippity-flop . . .

Ham 'n eggs, two in one, gimme some quick."

(All we do is tell the stories. We do not furnish translations.)

Before venturing on another career, FLORENCE MILLER tried her hand at barbering. She was four; her victim (shall we say customer?) was her brother, aged two. For several months afterward the little fellow looked rather bald in front.

The first time JUT GARRETT crossed the Huey P. Long bridge, he said, "That's the highest bridge I ever saw! It's taller than four telephone poles piled on top of each other!"

As reported by his mother, HERBERT MYERS, JR., picks up all hitch-hikers. He'll even turn around if they're going the other way. Perhaps the reason is that he spent his high school vacations hitchhiking to Illinois, California, and Florida.

As a boy, LEON MILLER developed a keen sense of neatness. Tired of living with his brother in a half-straightened (his half) room, he asked for a room of his own, so that he could "keep it nice."

At the age of eleven, ELINOR LARSEN won her first prize—first place in the Miami Herald "Spelling Bee" contest.

While watching some men unload coal, DAVID MATSON, aged five, said to his mother, "That's what I want to do when I get big." (We hope, David, that you eventually make the "grate.")

CATHERINE OWEN ate at a neighbor's house one night. The main course was pinto beans. Afterward she cleared the table and washed the dishes. Later that evening the neighbors had a party and served hot chocolate. The guests discovered pinto beans in the bottoms of their cups. Cathy had mistaken the pot of hot chocolate for the bean pot!

GORDON MORGAN CATHEY showed great talent as youngster. His specialty was preaching negro sermons to neighborhood children. To add a professional touch, young Gordon always passed the collection plate!

To hide them from his sisters, MARTHA THOMAS hid her personal treasure in holes that she dug in the orchard. One day she borrowed a girl friend's ring, and, after wearing it a while, buried it too. When the girl asked that the ring be returned, Martha dug and hunted in vain. But Martha had an answer when questioned about the ring. She told the girl, "The Lord came down and claimed it."

One day after spending quite a while on the creek bank, JOT KIMSEY finally caught a small fish. Patiently he took the fish off the line, pitched it back into the water, picked up his cane pole, and went home. Discouraged, he said, "I'm going to wait until they grow some more!"

During the season before watermelons were ripe, little SHIRLEY BARNES and her playmate proudly called her mother to see the wagon full of melons they had picked. "Besides," she added, "we picked all the rest and put them in piles!"

When MILDRED BALIAN came home with a promotion slip from kindergarten to the first grade, she said proudly, "Here, I am promoted to the first grade, but I am not going until you teach me to read and write—what will the teacher think of me!"

At the age of nine, "BATTYE" had the thrill of a trip to New York City. Dinner in the dining car of the train taking her to busy Grand Central Station, ice cream at Schrafft's Fifth Avenue, the ride down Fifth Avenue on the top deck of the bus, and the subway ride under the East River to Brooklyn brought wide-eyed wonderment, but no audible expression, from her. The last four blocks to their destination was via the humble trolley car. Alighting, BARBARA was heard to exclaim, "That's the first time I ever rode in a trolley-car!" (No sense of values, eh, Barbara?)

LEE TOMS, gazing up into a tree populated by Mr. and Mrs. Robin and most of their relatives, asked, "Which one is it?" His mother asked, "What do you mean?" "Oh, you know, the little bird that always tells on me!"

Little WANDA WALDEN expressed her love for her mother with this statement: "Mother, you have two good things about you—you love me and you have good eats."

At the age of three, JANET WILDY loved to play church. Having heard the song, as sung by Homer Rodeheaver, "Drifting, drifting, no port in sight," she sang, "Drifting, drifting, no pork-in-side!"

When her friends sang "Happy Birthday" to her at a surprise birthday party, GEORGINA WILSON was so overcome that she used the hem of her dress to wipe away her tears of amazement.

The second-grade class was learning long addition, and the teacher told the students they would next learn to carry in arithmetic. JANIS HANSON GARRETT hurried home and exclaimed to her mother, "Oh, we're going to learn to drag in arithmetic now!"

On her return from Indo-China with her missionary parents, ETHELLA CRESSMAN became very seasick. When they reached Kobe, Japan, Ethella declared that she was not going back on that old boat but would wait until they built a bridge to America!

The Scotts were having company for dinner one evening and JEAN reprimanded her mischievous brother by saying, "Oh, Bo-bo, act necessary!"

YVONNE JACKSON of Galveston, Texas, saw her first snow-fall when she was three and asked, "Who's throwing that stuff around?"

When CHARLENE BARGE was three years old, her mother gave her a birthday party and suggested that she invite about twenty friends. Ice cream and cake were ordered for that number, but imagine the surprise when into the house came about fifty boys and girls! Later Charlene explained, "I thought it would be much nicer to receive fifty gifts, instead of twenty!"

NAN BROWN'S grandmother was quite upset during the depression about her husband's cut in salary. One day, Nan, seeing her in a despondent mood, said, "Bama, don't look like that, but look at the one that loves you better than anything!"

At the age of six, LILLIAN NOLEN had pneumonia and a temperature of 105 degrees. A few weeks later her father came in feeling ill. Lillian said to him, "Daddy, you would work if you had a hundred temptations."

After his mother refused to let DON ODGEN go to the home of his playmate Ann, he was seen crossing the street. When she called him back, he dropped to his hands and knees and said, "I'm Ann's cat, and I'm going home!"

The following conversation took place between DICK PERKINS, three, his brother Jimmy, five, and their mother, when she was washing Jimmy's face:

Jimmy—"Stop rubbing my face so hard, Mother; you're hurting my whiskers."

Mother—"Whiskers? Why, where are they?"

Jimmy—"Right here, Mother," he said, pointing to his eyebrows.

Dick, snorting, broke in with: "Why, whiskers are when people talk in your ear."
